

Green Building Women's Competition

In partnership with the Green Building Council of South Africa, EDGE Expert Training will be provided to 10 finalists

The EDGE team along with GBCSA have launched a competition to identify and empower women who work in the built environment and property sector with free access to EDGE Expert training. Whether you are looking to expand your skillset to become a green-building practitioner, or to extend your services by fulfilling the role of EDGE Experts to your clients, this training will be provided to 10 finalists selected by the jury. The top three finalists will receive passes to the GBCSA Annual Convention 2022 as well as be recognized in an awards ceremony at the GBCSA Convention. They will also be recognized for their achievements in social media posts and mailings from EDGE and GBCSA.
