

INTERNATIONAL WOMEN'S DAY

8 MARCH 2022 | #BreakTheBias

In celebration of International Women's Day, the WPN would like to affirm its solidarity with women from all corners of the world. The severity of gender bias may be more severe in some corners of the world than others, but all women face similar issues when it comes to gender diversity, particularly in the work place.

One of the tools that the WPN is using again this year to keep the topic of gender diversity top of mind is the Gender Transformation Report which was first released in 2021 by the WPN. The document will be further expanded into reviewing other sectors of the industry through continued engagement with corporates and stakeholders alike.

This year the WPN will celebrate the "graduation" of the 1st cohort of the Real Estate Board Masterclass Series in conjunction with Business Engage, and will commence with the second programme to support the upskilling of women.

Thank you to our valued members, stakeholders and industry partners whom continue to support the WPN on its path to continually deliver on relevance for women in the property sector in South Africa.
